Around the World . . .

BY KARMA JOHNSON

After two days lacking three years since the oriental enemy began its war chant, the facts behind the vicious attack on Pearl Harbor remain a deep, dark secret to the American people. It has become evident that the inquiry conducted by the Army and Navy boards will not be submitted for a congressional investigation until after the war for reasons of military security.

Meanwhile, the war that was intended to mop up Germany in six months is about to enter its sixth year for the British and its fourth year for the United States. American troops penetrated deep into the German Reich Saturday, blazing a trail into Saarlautern, strategic Saar basin industrial city, and Julich, where they drove into the part of the town on the western side of the Roer river.

In the north, the U. S. Ninth Army suffered heavy losses as the raging battle on the edge of the Cologne plain entered its sixteenth day. American troops took Linnich and recaptured Roerdorf and Flossdorf which were lost to the Germans the day before.

In the Balkans, Russia appeared to have Western Hungary and Budapest in the palm of her hand. Over the week end, Fedor I. Tolbukhin's Third Ukraine (please see page two)

Panel Discussions Give Pros and Cons of Streit's Federal Union

BY HELEN LUND

Views—pro and con—on Clarence Streit's plan for Federal Union will receive emphasis at tomorrow's convocation at 1 o'clock when student speakers delve into the problem of international relations.

Points from greatly divergent opinions on the campus about Streit's peace plan, which proposes union of democratic nations under a federal government, will be presented in four short talks by students. A panel-discussion group will then take up the problem, to be followed by audience participation.

John Rolfson and Max Sugg, both of Missoula, upholding the Federal Union plan, will pit against Sam Phillips, Lewistown, and Curtis Stadstad, Raymond. Oscar Donisthorpe, Lewistown, will act as chairman of the discussion.

Views ranged from mildly favorable to ardently opposed when a (please see page four)

Dogpatch Proclamation

HEAR YE! HEAR YE! HEAR YE!

To all to whom these presents shall come, Greetings:

Whereas the undersigned, having been duly tapped and initiated members of Tanan-of-Spur and elected officers of aforesaid organization for the school year 1943-44, and having served faithfully to the best of their ability in these offices for said year, now, according to custom before completely surrendering their positions to their sophomore predecessors, plan to sponsor a social event for the enjoyment of the students of Montana State University and the furtherance of amicable relations between members of the opposite sexes on the campus,

And whereas the male students at the aforesaid institution because of their self-imposed duty of entertaining the numerically larger feminine population of the campus, find themselves in a condition of financial embarrassment and would appreciate an effort to extricate them from the depths of despair,

Now those present witness that the hours between 9 and 12 on Saturday, the 9th day of December A.D. 1944, shall, from and after the publication of this proclamation, be known and reserved as the time designated for traditional Sadie Hawkins Dance.

Further, all and sundry the students of the university aforesaid shall abide by the orders and regulations now promulgated by the aforesaid officers of Tanan-of-Spur, to-wit:

1. All Daisies must act in accordance with the laws of etiquette.
2. All Daisies shall take a Joe to the festivities at the Student Union Gold Room at least once between the hours of 9 and 12 of Sadie Hawkins day.
3. All Daisies shall avoid possible quarrels over a Joe resulting in unpleasant relationships or bodily injury by selecting and apprehending their Joes well in advance of the rush.
4. No Joe shall refuse an invitation unless previously spoken for.
5. All Daisies shall loosen purse strings and pay entrance fees of $1.10 for self and favorite Joe.
6. All Daisies and Joes shall (please see page four)

Unit Goes Off Campus After Dec. 31

ROTC Will Be Only Active Army Program Beginning Jan. 1, 1945

ASTRP training at Montana State University will end at the close of the present term.

Maj. George W. Misevic, commandant of the university unit yesterday received notification from the War Department saying that approximately 200 17-year-old reservists, here since July 5, 1944, will be withdrawn Dec. 31, but four colleges will continue to carry the program in the western United States. ROTC will be the only active Army program remaining on the campus, Major Misevic said.

Col. Thomas J. Cunningham, director of the school division of the Ninth Service Command at Fort Douglas, Utah, said the move will consolidate ASTRP training in fewer schools, hence the Missoula unit probably will transfer elsewhere.

Greater Economy

"The consolidation will effect greater economy and efficiency, in accordance with plans of War Department directors," said Colonel Cunningham, who recently complimented the state university for excellent operation of the reservist program. He also said ASTRP enlistments will be curtailed next January.

More than 5,000 men have been trained at the university since it "went into uniform" more than four years ago, Dr. A. S. Merrill, military coordinator, announced after completion of the first three-month term for the ASTRP reservists.

The university's services to the armed forces and affiliated defense branches, which have thus far been limited to aviation personnel, began in 1939 with the civilian pilot instruction for the civil aeronautics authority. Later under the sponsorship of the same agency, the university trained Army and Navy aviation enrollees.

Six Months on Campus

Beginning in March, 1943, and continuing for 16 months, the school was host to Army air forces personnel. This program was terminated June 30 and five days later—on July 5—the university began training the 17-year-olds of the ASTRP—army specialized training reserve program.

ASTRP enrollees, who are volunteers in the Army reserve, are divided into two groups. All are high school graduates, but those whose high school training in mathematics or the sciences has not been adequate, get an introductory course, earning 11 credits. The others get the basic course, worth 21 credits. Dr. Merrill says the intensified nature of the training enables these latter students to obtain about four more credits than the average civilian student would get in the same three-month period.

The Victory Bell Tolls Again

Student enthusiasm at the first basketball game of the season was the finest display of school spirit we have seen in a long time. Somehow the esprit de corps bore a striking similarity to the pre-Pearl Harbor days when the gym was packed to the rafters with cheering students—when strains of "Up With Montana" flooded the building whether it was a defeat or a victory. Saturday night's crowd gives evidence to the fact that school spirit has not been lost in the shuffle of adjustment to war-time education.

As the bell in Main Hall tower rang, it chimed a message to the city of Missoula—a victory had been won. Yet, this time it symbolized not only a victory for the team, but, also, the revival of a greater school spirit.

Tonight at 11 o'clock the Grizzlies leave from the Milwaukee depot for a four-day trip to Spokane where they will play two games with Gonzaga and one with Fort George Wright. Let's hope the results of their sojourn will result in a repeat performance of the Victory Bell atop Main Hall.

And—how about an extra three cheers for coach "Jiggs" Dahlberg?

University Orchestra Concert Will Feature Violin Solos

Two violin soloists, Dorothy Mae Blegen and Bernice Enevoldsen, will be featured at the University Symphony Orchestra's fall quarter concert at the Student Union Auditorium on Thursday, Dec. 7, at 8:15 o'clock.

Mrs. Blegen, the wife of Dr. H. M. Blegen, has been studying with A. H. Weisberg for three years. Miss Enevoldsen is a senior in the Music School. Her major is Public School Music, her principal instrument, violin.

This is the first of three concerts given annually by the orchestra under the direction of Prof. A. H. Weisberg. The other two will be presented during Winter and Spring quarters.

The program for Thursday evening will be:

army stabbed a hole in the 110-mile front in Western Hungary and drove within 74 miles of the valuable ore district in the Austrian province of Styria. Budapest, too, was threatened as motorized units advanced to within 47 miles south of Hungary's capital.

Intensive bombing of the Japanese mainland is being continued while AAF Liberators concentrated their efforts on Iwo and Jima in the Volcano islands. Two suffered five hits in four days. Only 750 miles from Tokyo, Iwo has been used by the Japs as an aerial base from which to bomb Superfortress fields on Saipan.

On the continent American liaison units and Yank airmen aided the Chinese in the recapture of Chefang. In the northwest, however, things were not going too well for the Chinese. It was reported that the Japs had entered Kweichow province.

Here at home the President's cabinet survived a slight shake-up as 44-year-old Edward R. Stettinius Jr., succeeded Cordell Hull, whose resignation was received by Mr. Roosevelt last week, as secretary of state. Assistant Attorney General Norman Littell was dismissed last week by the President for "insubordination."

The Senate passed one of history's largest flood control authorizations. Intended as a job-creating program, it sets postwar construction of most of the great river basins at $1,000,000,000. As soon as the bill was sent back to the House, the Senate began consideration of spending five times the above amount on rivers and harbors.

While civilians on the home front accentuated their mourning over the cigarette shortage, G.I.'s behind the lines were limited to two packs per week. Bull Durham, too, joined the ration list and citizens demanded to know wherefore cigarettes. The OPA rose up in arms, but devoted its vitamins to lots of talk instead of action. Finally a Senate committee was named to investigate the shortage.

In Canada's Quebec some 22,800 French-Canadians of the Home Defense force of 68,000 paraded the streets shouting, "Down with conscription." Reason for the violent outburst was the government's decree that 16,000 of these so-called Zombies would be sent overseas to relieve the men on the western front. Later in the week, the storm seemed to have subsided as draftee disorders calmed down.

Apart from national and international news, Montana's Garden City announced the success of the annual Charity Ball which is given under the auspices of the Missoula Crippled Children's Association. And, with only nine days to meet the county quota of $415,900 set for the Sixth War Loan drive, E bond purchases hovered around the half-way mark.

A panel discussion on etiquette, refreshments and a dance next Friday will mark the first appearance of the Personality Club, a project of Mortar Board.

Harriet Dillavou, Billings; Frank McCarty, Boulder; Kenneth Morrow, Fort Benton; Mary Morrow, Oak Park, Ill.; John Rolfsen, Missoula, and Sue Smartt, Butte, will conduct a discussion of etiquette. They will approach the subject by taking one specific evening and reviewing all rules of etiquette which would apply. Audience participation, both questioning and answering, will help to clear up problems of those attending.

Refreshments and dancing will follow the discussion.

Letters to The Editor . . .

Dear Editor:

Why is it that the light over the clock of Main Hall isn't on in the mornings?

After dreamily rushing through the process of dressing, gulping breakfast and dashing for class, the already anxious student gazes longingly through the darkness toward the shadowy face of the invisible clock.

Whether or not it would help them get to class earlier, it would contribute to the peace of mind of students to know how much they are late, if at all.

The light is on in the evening. Why not let us know the time when it can do the most good? After all, alarm clocks and watches are rarities these days, and many of us haven't been able to keep the old ones running. At least we would like to know why the clock—and we—are kept in the dark.

Sincerely,

A Tardy (sometimes) student,
Curtis Stadstad.

Mrs. Mary Elrod Ferguson, Mrs. E. O. Melby and Dr. and Mrs. W. P. Clark were Thursday dinner guests. Norma Smart, Portland, visited Dorothy Lamey, Billings, last week.

Delta Gamma

Thursday evening dinner guests were Louise Rhoads, Missoula, and Evelyn Aiken, Glendive.

Kappa Alpha Theta

Shirley Davis spent the week end at her home in Butte. Mary Jane Gorr, Anaconda, visited in Anaconda last week. Thursday evening Kappa Alpha Theta honored the Advisory Board at a dinner.

Kappa Kappa Gamma

Rosemary Westphal, Forsyth, Norma Burke, Laurel, Pat Riley, Seattle, and Laurie McCarthy, Townsend, were Thursday dinner guests. Pat Peterson of Conrad visited her sister, Mary Lois last week.

Sigma Kappa

Mrs. Mincoff, Mrs. Minto, Mrs. Brown and Miss Agnes Brown, all of Missoula, were Sunday evening dinner guests.

Science Meet Is Scheduled For Tomorrow

A special meeting of the science department has been called for tomorrow evening at 7:15 in the Natural Science Auditorium. All students, especially freshmen and sophomores, are urged to attend.

The purpose of the informal meeting is to inform students of the requirements, prerequisites and opportunities in the fields of bacteriology, medical technology, pre-nursing, botany, wildlife, forestry, pre-medical, zoology, psychology and physical education.

There will be representatives from these departments who will discuss the various aspects of each field in short ten minute talks.

After a 30 minute discussion period in which students will be free to participate and ask questions, the meeting will adjourn.

Grizzlies Win 49-43 Over Flyers

Season's First Game Ends In Close Triumph For Basketball Squad

BY KEITH CRANDALL AND GLEN KEIL

Montana's Grizzlies opened their season with a sensational triumph over the Gore Field Flyers last Saturday night. Outscored and outplayed by their taller adversaries through the first half and behind most of the second, Montana came from behind in the closing minutes to triumph, 49 to 43.

The Flyers, paced by Al Bukvich, former ace of Southern California, back recently from two years in Africa, took the lead early in the game and in spite of the brilliant defensive work of Vern Fisher, Fort Benton, led at half time by a score of 24 to 19.

In the second half, Montana, sparked by Don McDonald, Miles City, cut this lead to one point and then, with six minutes left to play, Bob Phillips, Lewistown, sank a free throw to pull the university into a 36 to 36 tie. From there the Grizzlies went on to build up an eight point lead, highest margin held by either side during the game, despite the loss of Bob Phillips who was ejected from the game because of five personal fouls.

Bukvich tallied 19 points for the losers, including seven free throws, to become high scorer of the evening. McDonald with eight field goals and one free throw totaling 17 points made the most points for Montana. Bill Hinrichs, Havre, made 5 field goals and 1 free throw for a total of 11 points.

The box score:

Volleyball is the main competition between the sorority houses and dorms in athletics these days. Ten games have been played so far. All of the 10 teams have made a good showing in the games and they're all out for that honored first place.

The Kappas, Sigma Kappas and North Hall are the undefeated teams at present and it looks like they'll be competing in the championship game on Dec. 13. So when you hear the coeds complaining of a bruised finger or a stiff back you'll know they've been reaching for the volleyball in another hard game. Federalists Have Discussion Of Streit's Plan at Convo small segment of the faculty expressed their opinions on the Federal Union plan presented in "Union Now" by Clarence Streit. Comments were made by five faculty members—W. P. Clark, professor of classical languages; Andrew C. Cogswell, associate professor of journalism; Joseph Kramer, assistant professor of botany; Robert T. Turner, instructor in history and political science, and G. D. Shallenberger, professor of physics and director of the Placement Bureau.

"I think Federal Union is an exceedingly good idea," commented W. P. Clark, "but I am a little discouraged about it. The plan doesn't have enough backing by men actually engaged in politics."

Andrew C. Cogswell said he thinks Streit is a little ahead of his time. He doubts that Federal Union will be adopted soon, but said that it has a very valuable purpose in pointing the direction for the growth of a really significant world peace organization.

Admires Streit

"I admire Streit," declared Joseph Kramer, "but he didn't really think the problem through clearly. He ignores the entire complexity of economic conditions."

Robert T. Turner said, "On the whole, Federal Union is unfeasible. It doesn't stand the slightest chance of becoming a reality because people and governments will not accept the denationalism required."

G. D. Shallenberger said he didn't know whether the objectives of Federal Union would be realized. But whether the aims are realized or not, he went on, it is carrying out a valuable program of educating the peoples of the world for peace.

Chief Objections

Chief objections to the plan were made by Kramer and Turner on Streit's analogy of the union of democratic nations to the union of the thirteen colonies. Both faculty members stressed that the thirteen colonies had common factors ideal for union such as language and economic relations, while the situation in Europe is much more complicated.

"Prejudices and nationalism cannot be erased in time to put such an order in effect right after this war," said Cogswell.

Opinion Shared

This opinion was shared by all commenting on the idea. Shallenberger commented that because the hates of the world were not as strong when Streit's book appeared, Federal Union was brighter and more shining then. He stated that the trend of the times have revealed obstacles that would make it difficult for the objective to be realized within the first few years after the war.

"While I don't see much possibility of great nations waiving their national rights," said Clark, "I believe the idea that is being sponsored is rather essential for making peace. The essential of peace is to find some means of making a world authority. In Federal Union all nations would have a relationship to world government as our states to our federal government."

Kramer advanced the theory that the United Nations Rehabilitation Association was the greatest aid to peace, because, he believes, strong, healthy nations are needed before peace can be maintained.

MSU Program Released Over State Stations

Beginning this week, the MSU University Hour, presented every Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. over KGVO, is to be released over Montana radio stations at Kalispell, Sidney, Great Falls and Billings. Featured on tonight's program will be a special music program by the School of Music faculty, an introduction to the coming "Mountaineer" and another chapter of the Montana story by Dean Emeritus A. L. Stone of the journalism school.

John Crowder, dean of the music school, will conduct an informal interview with two members of the school's staff, John Lester, associate professor of music, and Mrs. Florence Smith, organ professor.

Selections offered during the interview will include a piano solo by Mr. Crowder, deFalla's "Ritual Fire Dance"; and a vocal presentation of "Jesu Bambino" by Mr. Lester, accompanied by Mrs. Smith on the organ and by Mrs. Berry Ramskill on the piano. Mrs. Smith will also play the second movement of Sonata for organ by Becker.

A discussion about the forthcoming "Mountaineer", magazine for student contributions published by the English department, will be given by Instructor John Moore, faculty adviser, and Jane Jeffers, Ennis, editor. Along with a preview of the changes to be introduced in this "Mountaineer", a history of the magazine will be given.

Dean Stone's Montana story this week, in keeping with the Music Hour theme, will deal with personalities and events that have helped build up Montana University's name as a "singing campus".

A. C. Hartpence, Billings, is to announce the program; Allen Lewis, Livingston, will handle controls.

The program is to originate from the Student Union auditorium. Anyone interested in radio technique will be welcome, it is announced.

Script for the University Hour was written by Olaf J. Bue, publicity director, assisted by the music staff.

Of Cabbages and Kings

BY MANDI

"The time has come, the walrus said,
To talk of many things,
Of ships and shoes and sealing wax,
Of cabbages and kings."

This fall the khaki-clad lads of the ASTRP, bridling at an alleged Kaimin editorial slur, joined in an Aristophanian frog's chorus of

"Nyah, Boo, Nyah, Boo,
Grandma, Grandma
Nyah, Nyah, Boo."

Proper apologies and explanations were made and their ruffled dignity was duly placated.

Assured that MSU really did love them, the trainees changed the tune to

"I wanna be a voting member,
Of dear old MSU.
I wanna cast my ballot,
Like the students do."

Central Board went into a huddle, ironed out technicalities, in the midst of a major battle on the issue, and passed out the ballots.

Full-fledged members of ASMSU, the boys in brown introduced the last verse of their plaintive lament:

"Rah, rah,
Rah, rah, rah,
Rah, rah,
Rah, rah, rah,
Rah, rah,
Rah, rah, rah,
Gore field."

"Methinks they do protest too much."

The season opened but the game had migrated. Poor Sadie, all primed and rarin' to go. Perhaps there should be a more stringent bag limit, 1/3 male to each Diana of Dogpatch. Perhaps the faculty game reserve should be opened to the chase with faculty wives shelved for an evening. Poor Sadie.

And what about shaking loose a few pennies for a library ink fund. Students who run out are doomed to run home to fill up. An academic bottleneck.

Perhaps the sour-visaged educators who shudder and gloomily bemoan the apathetic interest of college students in world affairs will be forced to eat humble pie. This week's convo is a student roundtable discussion of the Federalist plan. We're looking forward to it. Congratulations to convo chairman Bette Kennett.
